

"India is the up and coming economic power in the world. Its affinity to democracy and free enterprise makes it a natural economic and political ally of the United States. Colorado should be proud that the US India Chamber of Commerce's National headquarters is located in Denver."

-Ambassador Sam Zakhem
(Chairman NUICC Board of Advisors)

"The United States and India have long been partners in democracy and in trade. While each nation has a distinct history and culture, we also share many commonalities. The world is rapidly becoming a smaller place in which to live and work, and that means our economies and our way of life are becoming highly interconnected. Global prosperity depends on lasting relationships that are based on mutual benefit and mutual respect. I became a member of this Advisory Board, because I believe both nations have much to gain from our closer ties. Promoting industrial, commercial, and social partnerships between the US and India will not only have a positive impact on a national and international scale, but also within our own State. Colorado, with its highly educated workforce and spirited business environment, has the unique fortune to play host to this wonderful new organization. Together there is no limit to what we can achieve."

-Mark E. Udall, Member of Congress
(Co-Chairman NUICC Board of Advisors)
